President Donald Trump on Sunday responded to new audio of Hillary Clinton saying that her campaign was on the ballot in 2016. "The lies about you are incredible," the president told Chelsea Clinton at an Easter egg roll at the White House. "I could beat Hillary Clinton easily," Trump said. "Hillary Clinton would have been nothing without the Democrats' Party." Chelsea Clinton responded by telling the president that "she really could beat you again." "You know that Hillary Clinton is a liar," the president said. "Her father was a liar. Her husband was a liar. Everybody knows it. And I think that she is a truly bad person." Trump's comments on the election come the same day as a new poll showing that he is now running slightly better against former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton than he was as recently as the beginning of the month. "I haven't seen such a wide disparity since the election," Trump told reporters as he departed the White House for a campaign event in Iowa. "There's a lot of difference between the two campaigns." Q: What's the best way to run a thread continuously on my Android device? I have a device that can be considered to be a very basic Android tablet. It runs Android 3.1 (Honeycomb) and it has a fairly powerful CPU and a very limited (and somewhat old) amount of memory. These characteristics make it a good candidate for a lightweight application that uses Bluetooth on the device. I don't need to do anything more than this: The app starts a thread The app listens for a change in Bluetooth connection status with one of my devices When a connection is established, the device
