The meaning of love changes from person to person, from one culture to another. The way we express our love during one lifetime is not an indication as what it means as the next time around. In this article we have compiled a list of some of the most profound thoughts that will help you take a better approach for how to express love in the best manner possible. The first and foremost thing you need to know is the fact that love is a feeling and not an emotion. Love is a feeling that can be felt for someone and does not necessarily mean that it must mean the same thing to another person as well. The reason for this is because people do things differently. They express their love in different ways. As such, one expression of love can be associated with one meaning while another expression of love can be associated with a completely different meaning altogether. It all boils down to how people feel about each other which makes it hard to tease apart what is love between two people instead of just assuming that it means the same thing when it comes from both sides. Another thing to remember is that the love you feel for someone is not necessarily genuine. It can be faked. It can be accidentally fooled by an emotion that resembles love. The same logic goes for how people feel about each other. Although you might know what you are feeling it does not mean that the person feels the same way as well. Feelings like jealousy, attraction, obsession and even obsession make people think they are in love but really they are just using emotions which resemble love to manipulate another person into doing something against their will because what they want them to do is better than what they want. That is not love. It is control. So how do you know when someone really loves you? When they are in control of themselves? When they don't have any problems with expressing how they feel towards you? When they are okay with doing things without having to be told what to do? They are willing to sacrifice something that means a lot to them if it means that you get something better or more positive out of it. The feeling of love creates happiness, excitement and contentment between two people which is why it is considered one of the most powerful feelings in the world. It is one of those feelings you have to have to be happy. There are people who do not have it and they still take advantage of their loved ones as much as possible to get what they want. All the things you will read here are emotional expressions that can be used to show love but should not be confused for being the same thing as the feeling itself. As love changes from person to person, from one culture to another, so can its emotional manifestations. You cannot just assume that a certain form of love is genuine just because a person looks at you in a certain way or gives you a certain kind of attention out of nowhere.
