About This Game

TIGA Finalist and BAFTA nominated Indie arcade/puzzler oOo: Ascension is now available on Steam!

Navigate your ship through short but ferociously difficult levels in the shortest time possible without touching any walls, spinning blades, lasers or countless other hazards that will try to destroy you in the process. oOo: Ascension revisits the ramping difficulty of old-school arcade games, whereby each challenge CAN be completed in a matter of seconds - however doing so ranges in difficulty from hard to straight-up rage-inducing.

The unique neon visuals and electronic soundtrack help to make oOo: Ascension an immersive experience that will have you saying "just one more shot..." for hours on end. Play in single player mode across 90 levels or race against a friend in local splitscreen mode - your progress carries across the two modes! You can also compare your times for each sector on the online leaderboards to see just how good (or bad) you really are.

Features

- A lightning-paced test of reflexes and skill across 90 levels split into 9 Sectors, each with it's own unique challenges and visual style
 - Local Co-op mode - race with (or against) a friend!
 - Online leaderboards to see how you rank globally for each Sector
 - Stunning neon visuals and immersive electronic soundtrack
- Ghosts allow you to see your fastest time for each level, or latest attempt if you haven't completed it yet

A very fun yet very difficult little time trial obstacle course game, controls are very responsive (so long as your responsiveness setting is at 10, 1 "smooths" out jerkiness), though they are not rebindable (not that the control scheme is bad, it's actually good), and there is no long respawn delay or need to manually respawn after dying (which you'll be doing a lot in this game), which makes it very much based on your skill and patience with a joystick.

Each sector has its own central gimmick and visual scheme.

Graphics are simple and clear, though the music loops, while good, are a bit on the short side.

As far as challenge goes, some levels are short, especially around the start, only requiring a few seconds to complete, while others, especially as you progress further, are full blown obstacle courses which make achieving the seemingly high par time difficult. Some levels have (possibly unintended) shortcuts which can shave off many seconds while going for par or leaderboards.

Unfortunately I cannot speak for the local multiplayer mode, as I do not own 2 controllers.

Overall I'd recommend this game to people who enjoy challenges and time trials, as long as you have a working controller.
